Write Winning Grant Proposals

The Office of Sponsored Projects is pleased to sponsor a seminar for faculty, professional research staff, postdoctoral fellows, graduate students, and research administrators.

The Seminar
Grant Writers’ Seminars and Workshops, LLC is an organization founded by academicians for academicians seeking research funding. http://www.grantcentral.com. Their widely acclaimed seminar is designed for faculty members and administrative staff who have had some exposure to writing grant applications, either through training/mentoring or personal experience. Emphasis is given to such things as idea development, identification of the most appropriate granting agency, how to write for reviewers, and tips and strategies that are of proven value in presenting an applicant's case to reviewers. Participants are taught to organize their presentations using a linear progression of logic, which leads reviewers through their applications. It is stressed that applicants are writing for two different audiences – the assigned reviewers, who have read the application in its entirety, and those who have read little, if anything, before the review meeting.

John D. Robertson
Dr. Robertson is an Associate Member of Grant Writers’ Seminars and Workshops, LLC. He received his doctoral degree in 1999 from The University of Texas at Austin. From 1999-2003 he served as a postdoctoral research fellow at the Karolinska Institute in Stockholm, Sweden. For seven years, he served as a faculty member in the Department of Pharmacology, Toxicology and Therapeutics at the University of Kansas Medical Center, and was an associate member of the University of Kansas Cancer Center for six years.

Dr. Robertson has been the recipient of competitive extramural funding from the NIH and non-federal sources. He has authored 29 peer-reviewed journal articles and three book chapters. He’s been a member of grant review panels, a reviewer for biomedical journals, and served on editorial boards.
